

McCoy vows:

Boutwell school to open

by Jeff Nazzaro

Monday night's Wilmington Board of Selectmen meeting met with an expected throng of concerned parents and school officials to discuss the newly implemented five year strategic plan of the public schools and, more pressing, the heated issue of overcrowding in Wilmington's elementary schools.

To accommodate the large turnout, the meeting was moved from the regular selectmen's meeting room to the town hall auditorium.

The group of close to 100 parents was heard and left with this promise from Chairman Michael McCoy: "The message is loud and clear - the Boutwell School has to open and I'm going to make it my goal to have that school open in September of 1995."

The vow came after testimony from Superintendent of Schools Dr. Geraldine O'Donnell, members of the Wilmington School Committee and several parents as to the deterioration of the school system educationally as well as in terms of space.

McCoy's assertion also capped the presiding tone of the meeting that school activists, led by Carol Neville, Agnes Fiumara and Susanne Clarkin, and school officials, will push for another Proposition 2 1/2 override in order to reopen the Boutwell.

A $575,000 operational Prop 2 1/2 override bid was rejected 60 percent to 40 by Wilmington voters last spring.

But with class sizes at the elementary level growing and the town continuing to develop residential properties, most feel that a Boutwell reopening is needed just as a short-term solution for space needs - and it is widely recognized that an override is the only way to accomplish that. The longer term solution, activists suggest, is to build a new school altogether.

Indeed, Town Manager Michael Caira, who supported last spring's override, said an override to open the Boutwell is currently the best solution to the problem.

"In order to open the Boutwell School," Caira said, "you need to have an override." He then went on to say that the "best short-term solution may be the opening of the Boutwell and an override of X amount of dollars."

McCoy's public endorsement of the Boutwell reopening, while not specifically embracing an override, is critical to the school space needs movement. Clarkin, for one, indicated at Monday's meeting that a new thrust to reopen the elementary school has to be taken up townwide, across what she termed a "united front."

"We're not going to look at anymore money for police cruisers, we're not going to look at any more money for ambulances, we're not going to look at anymore money for capital renovations to town buildings," Clarkin stated in urging selectmen to take town education as the number one municipal priority.

And selectmen, led by McCoy, showed almost unilateral support.

"I don't think we want our kids [taking classes] in hallways or gymnasiums, or mixing eighth graders with high school students," McCoy said in regards to some of the short-term alternatives to reopening the Boutwell that have been discussed.

One plan has the Shawsheen Elementary School gymnasium being divided into two classrooms, while another places fifth graders in the town's two intermediate schools (currently reserved for grades 6-8) and moves eighth graders to the high school.

The end needed, according to many, including O'Donnell, is space.

"What do you do when you have increased enrollment?" she asked, answering her own question with "You add teachers. What do you do when you add teachers? You need a place for them to work."

But O'Donnell also showed a school system reeling educationally from budget cuts.

"Our strengths have been eroded, we've lost staff, cut programs, had no textbook adoption and technology is at a standstill," she told selectmen and those in attendance.

To confront these problems, O'Donnell introduced the school system's five-year strategic plan, intended to battle seven problem areas ranging from behavior to funding.

But the bottom line school officials, activists and parents are presenting is clear: how good can the quality of education be if a kid doesn't have a place to sit down?

Donna Murphy was one such parent, who, with children ages two and three at home, said "I'm afraid for my children to go into the schools as they are now."

The Wilmington Public Schools five-year strategic plan is summarized on page 24 of this newspaper.

Additionally, complete copies of the plan are available at the Roman House, Wilmington's school administration building, located on Church Street on the grounds of the high school.

Altman reappointed as town counsel, again

by Jeff Nazzaro

The Wilmington Board of Selectmen Monday extended Attorney Alan Altman's longstanding tenure as town counsel - but not before a debate as to the duration of the reappointment should be ended in what could be considered a surprise vote.

The board voted 4-0 to grant Altman a six month extension as town counsel, effective the first of next year.

But Chairman Michael McCoy put Altman's renewal on the selectmen's agenda with the intention of having the appointment span all of 1995. Selectman Robert Cain agreed, and abstained from voting for the six months, while McCoy capitulated and went with the majority.

Selectman Gerald Duggan made the motion seeking a six-month reappointment, and Selectman Diane Allan quickly seconded it.

In the ensuing debate, Duggan said his motion was made in order to put the town counsel appointment back in line with those of other town officials, traditionally made at the start of each fiscal year.

Appointments are made at this time for obvious financial reasons, as Duggan pointed out.

"We're giving somebody a job that nobody's appropriated money for after June 30th," he said, if Altman were reappointed for a year beginning in January.

At the start of the last fiscal year, Altman requested and received a six-month renewal from selectmen, to the end of calendar year 1993. Altman was then granted a year-long reappointment that will end in December of this year. The new appointment will conclude with the start of the new fiscal year, July 1.

The feeling of the board seemed to be that Altman would then receive a new, one-year reappointment.

But McCoy wanted appointment to span the upcoming calendar year, and Cain felt the renewal should last either that same year or 18 months. The year-and-a-half appointment, Cain argued, would put the town counsel post back into the fiscal year appointment schedule.

Selectman Chester Bruce held the swing vote and, to at least McCoy's surprise, voted along with Duggan and Allan.

McCoy was caught looking past the vote on Duggan's motion for a six-month appointment, making a provisional motion for a one-year renewal if Duggan's failed.

When McCoy saw Bruce's positive vote, he at first tried to recall the vote, then supported the motion himself.

Altman has not yet accepted the reappointment as the board still has to negotiate a new contract with the Altman and Altman law firm.

Old cruiser that DARES

by Jeff Nazzaro

Be on the lookout for a jazzed-up DARE-mobile patrolling the streets and schoolyards of Wilmington.

Wilmington DARE Officer Chip Bruce has taken the anti-drug program to a new level while giving it a brand new look with the help of some generous local businesses.

The new look is actually an old cruiser, with special DARE modifications, including mag wheels, a slick paint job, lights and sirens.

"It's a little flashy for a cruiser, but the kids love it," said Bruce, who has been the town's DARE Officer since February.

Bruce got the 1992 Ford Crown Victoria police cruiser from DPW Superintendent Bob Palmer after Bruce's lieutenant, Bob Spencer and Chief Bobby Stewart approved the idea for a special DARE vehicle. The rest came out of the generosity of local businesses for the unbudgeted DARE program.

One local businessman, who wishes to remain anonymous, contributed funds for lights and a siren for the converted cruiser.

With those in place, Bruce approached Ed Whitney, of E.C. Whitney & Son barrel company on Woburn Street about lettering for the car. Whitney enlisted the services of Lombardo's Sign Co. and the two businesses took care of costs.

The lettering was put on after Bob's Auto Body took out the dings and dents, painted and buffed the car - then it was ready for the final touch, supplied by Wilmington Firestone in the form of monster mag wheels.

"It's nice to have the business community volunteer to help. They came to us, we didn't have to go to them," said Bruce, who had contributors names put on the car.

Now, Bruce and his mean machine can deliver his anti-drug message to the kids of Wilmington in style.

DARE, or Drug Abuse Resistance Education, was started in Wilmington by Spencer in 1987 as one of only two such programs in the state. Bruce became the program's third officer, after Officer James White held the post for four years.

Bruce said it helps to say the DARE acronym backwards when thinking of how the program works: it is designed to educate the kids on how to resist the abuse of drugs.

The program, which has been targeted at fifth graders since 1987, has now been expanded to include students in the seventh grade.

DARE involves a 17-week program for fifth graders culminating in a graduation complete with diploma. For seventh graders, Bruce said DARE is presented at a more mature level and is aimed at reinforcing the anti-drug messages before kids hit he high school.

Bruce was recently commended to the Wilmington Board of Selectmen for his work in the Wilmington schools - and particularly the North Intermediate School - by that facility's new principal, Doug Anderson.

In the letter, Anderson states that Bruce "has been a constant and consistently welcomed visitor to our students and school.... It remains a pleasure to be involved in a community where quality people such as Chip Bruce care so much about the welfare of our students."

It's YOUR Money

BY JOYCE BRISBOIS
Certified Public Accountant

IT'S NEVER TOO SOON

It's never too soon to start stashing away money for retirement, though few young folks believe it. In fact, they really have time on their side: money put into a tax deferred account early will grow substantially, even if later deposits lag.

For many young adults, especially those with the growing expenses that go with a growing family, it's hard to siphon off money for savings. What finally "sells" the idea is the tax deductibility of an IRA or a 401(k), automatic deposits make it easier.

But it's a long time until these new workers turn 65. What if they want the money before?

Under IRA rules, there's usually a penalty if money is withdrawn before the saver is 59 1/2 - but a handy loophole permits penalty free distributions if they are equal, annual ones tied to the life expectancy of the owner. In addition, some retirement plans allow distributions without penalty for deductible medical expenses and borrowing under special circumstances.

We're big on saving for retirement. We'll show you why at

Rating wrong

Dear Larz:

Believing Rochelle Flynn's evaluation of the film "Pulp Fiction" as described in her column "Movies" of the 02 November issue my wife and I looked forward to some welcomed comedy. Excepting for the comedy clubs there's little of that to detract from the grimness of everyday activities and shows the endless lack of logic in our culture.

Although we were bombarded with the f-word and other subculture language from the opening scene wherein Travolta and his hit man associate were recalling the demise of yet another associate by being hurled from the 14th floor, we eagerly awaited the comedy.

Little comedy was shown when Travolta and a hit man associate cold bloodedly killed two of three boys who had violated the Boss's rules. Both emptied their hand guns into the bodies.

The Boss's assignment for Travolta to escort his wife in an evening's of entertainment resulted in the wife OD'ing on the cocaine to the verge of death. The audience gasped when Travolta plunged the long hypodermic needle into her heart to administer the reviving adrenalin, no laughs.

The same language was carried through to another of the Boss's escapades, that of bribing a boxer to throw a match. When the boxer killed his opponent he became a target of retaliation with Travolta assigned the killing task. This scenario was interrupted by one portraying the boxer with his lady friend in explicit oral sex. Some audience snickering here.

In an accidental surprise encounter Boxer sprayed Travolta with bullets from Travolta's automatic rifle and left him for dead. Only those used to the macabre snickered at this point, perhaps at the loss of the star before the ending.

The climax occurred when, by an interesting twist of fate, both Boxer and Boss became prisoners of a sex crazed pair with one shown sodomizing Boss. Perhaps the audience laughter was precipitated by the powerful Boss being so humiliated.

When freeing himself Boxer's first thought of his escape but he rethought this selfish exit and returned to rescue his erstwhile executioner. Boxer's slashing the on-looking kidnaper was followed by Boss firing a shotgun blast at the groin of the sodomist leaving him in agony. Boss's show of appreciation for this rescue was shown by forgiving Boxer his renege on the agreement to throw the boxing match. The Boxer's unselfish act and the Boss's appreciation were moving, but not humorous as judged by the audience reaction.

The only way Ms. Rochelle Flynn could have labeled this film a comedy of any type is that she confused it with another. Confusion was evident in many ways.

Sincerely yours,
Albert G. Berian

Hockey rink could backfire on town

Dear Larz:

There are a couple of ideas that still need to be expressed about the Livingston Street, Tewksbury hockey rink proposal. By way of example: when a teenager agrees to do certain things in return for being allowed to borrow the family car, if he tells his parents what they want to hear, then uses the car for purposes he knows his parents would not have allowed, it is predictable that they will take the car back and let the kid walk around until he learns to be more forthright.

The way the hockey rink proposal is being presented by the town to the Legislature reminds me of that teenager. To be specific, if the town wants to build an indoor hockey rink amid an asphalt parking lot, perhaps also to build a bingo hall and to site other commercial facilities there - why can't the town just say so, up front, to the Legislature? Instead our leaders have cloaked the petition in gobbledygook. For instance, they ask that the state hand over 8.8 acres "upon the express condition that the parcel of land be utilized for recreational outdoor cultural purposes, skating and other purposes." Everybody knows there is no "recreational outdoor cultural purpose" intended for the property. We want an indoor rink. But it doesn't make a lot of sense to say we are going to do one thing with land when we really want to do something else.

I realize there is the standard

Town needs the hockey rink

To the editor:

To Doug Sears, chairman of the Republican party in Tewksbury. Wake up man. This town needs a hockey rink. There are over 650 youth hockey players, parents, sisters, brothers, grandparents, etc. who have to travel to different hockey rinks in different towns which are at least 20 to 30 minutes away for practice and games. This happens mostly in the dead of winter.

This means they have to travel to hockey rinks in snowstorms, ice storms etc. Hockey players and their parents do not have the luxury of warm weather sports. You mentioned in the Lowell Sun article Nov. 14, they should save the land for soccer and football. Doug, how long have you lived in this town? Livingston Street alone sports one of the most fabulous youth football fields around and across the street there are two football practice fields that other towns would want for their main fields. Now let's get to soccer, Livingston Street sports two very fine fields, the high school has one, the Wynn Middle School has one and North Street Frasca Fields have four fields.

I can't believe you would want to deprive these Tewksbury hockey players the right to have a home rink once and for all.

Sincerely yours,
George W. DeRoche
Tewksbury Youth Hockey Coach

Joyce Beckwith presenter at conference

Dear Larz:

Joyce Beckwith of Wilmington High School presented "Crossing the Pyrenees: The Basques - New Common Ground for French and Spanish Teachers" seminar at the annual conference of the Mass. Foreign Language Assoc., Nov. 4-5 at the Ramada Hotel Rolling Green, Andover.

The MaFLA conference included more than 60 workshops addressing needs in Chinese, French, German, Italian, Latin, Russian and Spanish classes. The annual conference is the 29th sponsored by MaFLA. It attracts teachers from throughout New England and program presenters from across the nation.

Among the speakers were Dr. June K. Phillips, project director of the National Standards for Foreign Language Education and Dr. Kathleen Riordan, supervisor of foreign languages in Springfield and President-Elect of the American Council of the Teaching of Foreign Languages.

MaFLA's membership of over 1,000 teachers is proud to continue to serve our country's need for increased language proficiency and global awareness in our rapidly shrinking world.

Welcome the event

by Capt. Larz Neilson

Residents and taxpayers of Wilmington can welcome the latest event in the story of "round schools" in Wilmington.

If the Boutwell Street School were to be taken over by the town, and classes for the Wilmington School Department were to be held in that school this fall it would afford the residents of Wilmington as well as the town officials an opportunity to judge the value of that type of building, without having to be engaged in the hyperbole of approximately a quarter of a century past.

The Boutwell School and the building which is now the Town Hall of Wilmington were constructed by a committee of half a dozen business men who had been appointed a School Building Committee. A 16 sided building, it was as termed a "round" school. The idea in one phase of construction was to have the outside walls constructed as economically as possible.

If memory is correct there were 12 classrooms, seating 25 to 30 students. There were, of course, other facilities as well, including a large assembly hall. The plans are owned, outright, by the Town of Wilmington. Updating those plans should be feasible at an affordable cost.

Why there were prejudices against that building is difficult to understand. Probably that prejudice stems from the fact that schools were one room, a century or so ago, and the college teachers of half a century ago were trying to stop that type of construction.

The Building Committee who produced the "round" schools was, in one sense, attempting to cut bussing costs. They were sincere men who did not deserve the blame which was put on their shoulders.

Now the residents and others can have an opportunity to use their own judgment, without listening to old age prejudice. The persons to suffer are those who have been conducting The Abundant Life School, in that building off Boutwell Street. They would have to go elsewhere.

There are more than a few areas in this town which can welcome a round school, if it proves successful. Many areas, such as, for instance, the north end of Andover Street, are becoming heavily populated. School bussing from that area could prove expensive. The town has recently conducted a study of all town owned land. Perhaps from that study a site or sites could be found for another round school.

Tewksbury teachers deserve a raise

Dear Larz:

As reported in the media recently Tewksbury teachers are scheduled to entertain a strike vote if the School Committee and teachers fail to reach a tentative agreement by December 1, 1994.

It may help your readers to know some facts related to this labor dispute.

1. Tewksbury teachers' salary increases 1991-92, zero percent; 1992-93, zero percent; 1993-94, September two percent, February two percent, June 1 (the above 2-2-1 increase translates to a three percent in pocket raise).

1994-95 School Committee proposes yet another zero percent salary increase.

Note: With inflation factored in Tewksbury teachers actually have taken a pay cut over the last three years.

2. Compared to surrounding Merrimack Valley towns, salaries paid to veteran Tewksbury teachers rank among the lowest.

3. Tewksbury teachers have been trying to negotiate a contract for 14 months.

4. The School Committee procrastinated for much of the 14 months and in fact, canceled four of the six scheduled summer bargaining sessions.

5. Tewksbury per pupil spending is also one of the lowest in the area.

Tewksbury teachers will do all they can to avert a strike. However, if the School Committee does not rethink its position, we may have no alternative and vote on December 1 to take this drastic action.

Tewksbury Teachers Association
Anthony Blandini, Chairman,
Negotiating Team; John Bresnahan,
Chairman, Crisis Committee.

Two party system is how it should be

Dear Larz:

In the wake of last Tuesday's election, there is a renewed emphasis on placing policy above personality and reason above rancor.

As I held signs at four of the six voting sites in Tewksbury and Wilmington, the cordial conversations and kind sharing of coffee, doughnuts and other sustenance which crossed party and ideological lines, showed that politics can still be civil.

In the wake of another overwhelming victory, I was surprised to read that, rather than reveling in the mandate just given to him by the voters, Jim Miceli would sink to leveling unfounded charges against me.

The heart of Democracy is competition and the free exchange of ideas. I believe all incumbents should have opponents so candidates for public office can defend their positions on issues and define their visions for the future. The dialogue and debate is as important as winning and losing.

Al Meegan is my friend. He is an ordinary citizen who ran a campaign out of his kitchen because he believes in limited government, the two party system, a citizen legislature and the Democratic process.

He chose to make the sacrifice of running for his party and earned the respect and endorsement of Governor Weld, Treasurer Malone, Senator Buell, Representative Brenton and many other leaders.

His reward was to have his wife and teenage daughters read that Jim Miceli called him a liar and a man without ethics or integrity. Nothing could be further from the truth. The accusation must have sounded familiar to Rocco DePasquale, Kevin Sowyrda and John DeForge, though.

I am a Bill Weld Republican. I have campaigned for Republican tickets in support of ideals and principles and out of loyalty; not because of an expectation that most of the candidates would win.

The people holding Roosevelt/Massie signs had no more expectation that their men would win than I did that Al Meegan would beat Jim Miceli. But they, as I, did what they believed in and were loyal to their cause.

I wish Jim Miceli understood that there is nothing negative or personal in being loyal to friends or true to principles. His relationship with his nephew is strained because of politics. He has personally attacked all of his opponents and now he is attacking me.

I am not, nor have I ever been, the architect, designer or promoter of a negative campaign. Just as honorable people such as Anna Visconte and Rocco DePasquale are devoted to the causes of the Democratic Party, I will remain a loyal Republican. That should not bother you, Jim.

Jim Miceli's supporters should be proud of their accomplishments. It is a political organization second to none.

As I have stated publically, many times, Jim Miceli and I agree on many more issues than on which we disagree. I wish him success in the coming two years.

If he has Republican opposition in 1996, I hope to see him on the street corners holding signs. By then, he may have matured enough to realize that politics isn't personal and we can disagree without being disagreeable.

Sincerely,
Mark T. Haldane

Selectmen just don't get it - we need schools

Dear Larz:

It seems that our inspiring Board of Selectmen is at it again. On the one hand I am very grateful to them and on the other I am just simply awestruck. I am grateful to them because they have provided the foundation of a yet-to-be-aired sitcom "Tales of the Unenlightened and Dysfunctional Board of Selectmen." I am awestruck because it appears that they believe they have been blindsided by the critical problem we have with our school system. The problem has been festering for at least four and two of the current Board members were advised of the problem years ago with hard cold irrefutable facts.

The facts... In the late 80s a 440 unit "development," Shawshen River Estates was proposed. To any objective (a key word) party the impact of this "development" on the infrastructure of the town, particularly the Shawshen Elementary School, was clear. As an abutter, concerned citizen and parent of two students attending the Shawshen I took an active interest in, among other things, quantifying the impact of the "development" on the Shawshen School.

There are at least three different commonly accepted statistical formulae used by the United States Department of Census. The Urban Planning League and students of city planning that forecast household demographics and populations. A key variable in each of these formulae is the number of bedrooms per unit. Armed with this information and some basic knowledge of the number of planned housing units it is painfully simple to run population projections. In 1991, using these generally accepted formulae, yours truly forecasted the Shawshen Elementary School population at 720 students. As you may now know this 91 projection was wrong. The current projection for the Shawshen School is 780 students.

Yours truly, along with several other concerned citizens, presented this and other compelling information, orally and in writing, to the Board of Selectmen on at least two occasions. Not to our surprise but to our amazement, the projection fell on deaf ears. Not a single member of the Board attempted in any way to quantify the impact of this and other planned developments on the Precinct 1 area of the town. Please keep in mind that as indicated previously two of the current Board members were in office at the time this irrefutable information was presented.

Point one, the Board of Selectmen, at least in the instance as explained above, even when presented with objective, factual information based on commonly accepted principals "didn't get it" or chose not to pay attention to the data. That begs a few questions. Is the Board of Selectmen's total disregard for their facts atypical? Is the Board just some prodeveloper that no information will be persuasive?

The second and more salient point is that we have a long history with some of these inspiring boards members. There is a consistent pattern of uninformed decision that seem counter to logic and the best interest of the taxpayers at large.

It is clear (or should be to the Board) that we as taxpayers don't want an override. Further, it is clear to everyone that we have no critical funding and population problem within our school system. Lastly, it is understood that there is a linear relation between their number of bedrooms in a town and the number of children. Simply said, the more bedrooms, the more kids.

With these truisms well known please consider why our town fathers continue to grant building permits. Rumor has it that there are another 400 buildable lots in town! Has any of our elected officials, and/or assumed to-be-responsible town officials, asked would their incremental tax revenue from these units offset the cost impacts to their infrastructure of the school system? It has also been suggested that town owned land will be sold to raise to cash. What a good idea, sell more land to build more houses on, to provide more bedrooms for young children whom we must squeeze into already overcrowded schools. What a solution!

There are a number of alternatives we can consider including a moratorium on building permits for "new home" construction. Raising the application fee for a "new home" building permit to $2500 (I suspect that we might be able to replace an entire classroom of 1980s math books with the revenue from a single building permit). Lastly, we as citizens must send a clear message to the Board of Appeals, Board of Selectmen and other town officials so that the crisis in our schools does not need further investigation and/or debate, it needs resolution.

A call to action, Please join me in forming a grass routes movement for the purpose of uniting to plan action strategies to make our town "leaders" focus on the real issues, to help them make informed/responsible decisions and finally to raise cash for legal action, in the form of a temporary restraining order, against the Town should they fail to "get it." It simply is time. Please provide me with your name, address, telephone number by writing to me in care of Performance Technology Associates, P.O. Box 800, Wilmington, MA 01887. I will add you to the database and contact you for the first meeting.

This is not just a senior problem

Dear Larz:

For the past 15 years, Wilmington elder citizens have had many benefits under direction of a caring and dedicated director supported by many volunteers, adequately funded by the town.

If any senior citizen, or soon to be senior is concerned about the actions of a few which threaten our director and continuation of her program - write to the town manager and tell him of your fears and concerns.

This is not just a senior problem - all residents of our town will one day be senior citizens - it is not too early to ask whether proper persons will be in charge and appropriate programs offered.

letters to the editor

Teaching to beg is wrong

Dear Larz:

I just got back from my weekly food shopping, picking up my dry cleaning and stopping by Dunkin Donuts for a cup of coffee and I'm finally so aggravated that I have to write this letter.

Why are we teaching our children to beg? at all of the above described stops this morning, I was stopped by students who were holding cans and panhandling for money. Yes, they had good causes - youth hockey, soccer, etc. but the point is that there are other ways to obtain funds for these and other worthwhile causes without begging.

I have been a Wilmington resident my entire life, have gone through the school system, participated in sports and active in my church activities. Yes, there were many times when the various organizations needed funds but never did we beg! We did things to raise the funds. We made Christmas decorations, wreaths (until my hands were bleeding), sold our services in a "slave auction" where we raked leaves, washed windows, washed cars, baby-sat and many more activities - all to raise funds for different organizations.

If these students would offer a cookie or cupcake for sale, offer a service or any of a hundred other ways to raise funds, I would be more than glad to support them. But, if these students continue to beg as I have seen on almost each and every weekend, then I cannot participate. Does anyone realize how difficult it is to hire one of these young people to rake leaves or shovel snow?

Thank you for reading this

Water, water everywhere - at the wrong rate

Dear Larz:

Conserving water - good citizenship?
Not in Wilmington.

1. Minimum charge to all 1,000 c.f. = $28.30 (2.83 per 100 c.f.).
2. Conserve, carefully save, using less than 1,000 c.f. pay the same amt. (600 c.f. = $4.72 c.f. = $28.30).

3. Where does excess money go?
4. Why bother - use more for fair pricing.

A system that defeats itself.

TMHS students cook for the needy bits & pieces

The Food Service class at Tewksbury Memorial High School, (TMHS) under the direction of Mrs. Gail Pollard prepares food for the needy once a month. The students are enthusiastic about helping less fortunate people. Last month they prepared American chop suey and assorted desserts. The food is delivered to a community table by a member of the high school staff. The students are also busy this time of year preparing baked goods to be donated to the Parents Advisory Council's bake table that is run during their Applefest Craft Fair that will be held Saturday, Nov. 12 at TMHS. Proceeds from the bake sale and the fair are used for scholarships for TMHS students.

The advanced food classes are also training to open a take out restaurant for the school staff. The class will prepare lunch once or twice a week. The lunches will be for sale beginning in November. All these projects give the students hands on experience for either a Northeast Radiator, Inc.'s customers appreciate their quick turn-around on orders so much, that in the last ten years, they've had to open six new locations. Suddenly Paul Rogers, their VP and founder, was heading up one of the largest retail and wholesale radiator operations on the East Coast.

He needed a bank that could help him handle the overflow. One that would respond with answers, instead of questions.

He found exactly that at Medford Savings.

"Their Commercial Loan Department came through with the financing we needed to expand our delivery system, and refurbish a new corporate headquarters," said Rogers.

With Medford Savings' financial help and guidance, the company avoided the red tape. A welcome alternative to the larger banks where small businesses can get lost in the shuffle.

Brass Band Concert

The Wilmington Congregational Church will host a special Christmas concert by the 30 piece New England Brass Band Saturday, Dec. 3 at 8 p.m. at the church on Middlesex Avenue. Proceeds will go to benefit the church.

This excellent band, which is based in Boston, is typical of the British "all brass" tradition, where brass banding was founded in the 1840s and continues to this day. The band now in its sixth year, continues under the baton of William Rollins.

The unique "all brass" instrumentation produces the familiar bright sounds of brass and a rich expressive mellow sound so wonderfully appropriate at the Christmas holiday season.

The band will present a diverse program of traditional Christmas favorites, both secular and sacred in addition to familiar concert pieces arranged for this large brass group.

Please be seated by 7:50 p.m. For more information contact the Rev. Thomas Dean at the Wilmington Congregational Church, 508-658-2264.

SELECTING A REALTOR

Finding the right Realtor to help you in your search is the first important first step you should take when you are ready to buy a new home. Some people recommend the "choosing a book by its cover" approach when selecting a Realtor and recommend that you choose your agent based on the car he or she drives. While it is true that you're going to be spending a considerable amount of time in the agent's car, it's much more important to be comfortable with the person than their vehicle.

Knowledge, professionalism and experience are important factors to consider when selecting a Realtor. But you should also look for someone who listens carefully to what you want in a new home, and who knows that market well enough to find the perfect house for you within a reasonable period of time. If you feel like the Realtor is sensitive to your needs and desires, you will feel confident about working with that person.

For professional advice on buying or selling real estate, please drop by our office in The Starwood Building at 299 Main Street, or call us at 657-8444.

Tewksbury freshmen learn to make right choices

Decision making is a required health course for all ninth grade students at Tewksbury Memorial High School (TMHS). Mrs. Denise Saindon has been teaching the course since it was first implemented in 1987. Issues and considerations in the areas of life goals, critical thinking, drugs and sexuality are explored in order to foster responsible decision making abilities.

Current issues are added to the program as the need arises. A unit on violence in relationships has been added. The students are currently involved in investigating the various effects of drug abuse in society today. Each class has been divided into cooperative groups for this project. Each group has been assigned a specific drug to research. Informative posters on their topic, are generated by the groups and will be shared with their peers.

Mrs. Saindon uses many "Afterschool Specials" aired on PBS, ABC and CBS to supplement classroom information. Recently acquired interactive computer programs are also utilized to supplement some topics.

ARE YOU PROTECTED?

by Edward H. Wilkens

DEATH AND TAXES

QUESTION: I'd hate to think of what would happen to our business if one of our partners or major stockholders would die. Is there some way to get insurance protection to cover this potential calamity?

ANSWER: There certainly is. Business continuation and key man insurance can provide all the funds needed to prevent severe business disruption in this scenario.

If your partner should die, his heirs may be entitled to his share of the business without this insurance. That may spell financial disaster. People are more important than buildings when it comes to a small business (or any business). You must protect against such loss.

INSURANCE can save a business from going under if one of the partners or major officers dies.

Senior Center fulfilling the need

by Jeff Nazzaro

More than 1,500 Wilmington seniors visit the Buzzell Senior Center monthly for everything from free coffee and donuts to cholesterol screenings.

Under the direction of Edith Cunningham, the center bustles with activity and serves as a meeting place, recreation center, health clinic, and headquarters for administering services to homebound and active seniors.

Last month, the center's minibus traveled over 1,100 miles in transporting over 400 senior citizens to medical appointments, shopping centers and to and from the center itself.

Another 2,000 miles (all within Wilmington) were spent delivering some 1,200 meals to shut-ins, with an additional 400 hot meals served at the high school.

And this was just last month.

But the Buzzell Senior Center is about much more than just numbers. It is about friends, enjoying one another's company, sharing interests and growing together.

The biggest attraction at the center is kitchen socialization, where the coffee and the conversation are always plentiful.

The slightly more active activities at the center include arts and crafts, bingo, bowling (held at Candle Pin Lanes in North Reading), cards, ceramics, dance and exercise classes (both consistent big draws), exercise room - with a treadmill, stationary bikes and a rowing machine - nutrition class, shop class, the ever popular sing-a-long and even swimming, taken at Shawsheen Tech High School.

But life for seniors and at the Buzzell Center is by no means all fun and games.

The center deals continuously with financial problems besetting seniors and issues of mental and physical health. Referrals are constantly made to organizations, including Minuteman Home Care and the Middlesex East Visiting Nurse Association for problems ranging from depression to medication dependency.

Then there are the sad truths of financial exploitation and mental and physical abuse of seniors that the center deals with, making referrals in those cases to protective services, including the attorney general's office on elderly abuse, the social security and welfare offices and Medicaid.

Social services made available through Cunningham include SSI, individual counseling, Life Line and Vial of Life, weatherization, fuel assistance, homemakers, Medicare, supplemental insurance, medical supplies, nursing help and commodities distribution.

And for each month there is a therapeutic social, where seniors can relax and enjoy themselves and the company of others. The socials are in many ways microcosmic of the center itself: a burgeoning support network and gathering place filled with seniors helping seniors, while maintaining old friendships and kindling new ones.

Wilmington's quarterback Billy Harrison is trying to avoid the on-coming rusher to deliver a pass. Harrison and his teammates were not able to overcome Lawrence as they fell 43-21 but they hope they can walk away with one more victory in their final game of the season against Tewksbury on Thanksgiving morning. ## Second half no show costs Cats

by James Pote

For the second straight week, the WHS football team had a pleasant feeling heading into their locker-room at halftime. Last week they dominated Dracut in the first half and went on for their first win of the season. This past Saturday afternoon, the team was down a respectable 21-13 score to Lawrence in a non-league battle.

Then it was the second half blues - what happened? Starting with a 68 yard run for a touchdown on the first play of Lawrence's first drive of the second half can answer the first part of that question. Then add a 31 yard run for another touchdown and a 70 yard run all in the third quarter and Wilmington was not feeling all that comfortable anymore.

And to top it all off in the remaining minutes of the game, Wilmington was trying to punt out of their own endzone - the snap went over Steve O'Neil's head out of the endzone for a safety. The scoreboard then read 43-21 - another victory for Lawrence.

"The kids were not in this one. I have no idea what the reason is.

I'm not taking anything away from Lawrence, they are quick and very talented but the bottom line is they came to play and we didn't", said a very frustrated Gerry Sullivan.

Lawrence, in case it is not known, took a one year leave from the MVC to decide whether or not they belonged in the league or if they should have packed their bags to another. With their win over Wilmington, their record then improved to 8-1 which includes three wins against fellow MVC opponents (Billerica, Dracut and now Wilmington).

The end of the game tally had Lawrence with a total of 337 yards with all but 14 of those were on the ground. Wilmington, on the other hand, had a total of 169 yards - 135 thanks to O'Neil.

The running back now has a total of 792 yards to date - 208 against Tewksbury would be a nice way to leave his high school days. Oh yeah, he also added two more touchdowns to his impressive resume.

Both of his touchdowns were pretty to watch. The first came in 17 seconds of the second quarter on a third and goal from Lawrence's nine yard line. O'Neil then carried in nine yards despite carrying four defenders with him into the endzone.

His second touchdown was a ten yard completed pass to Rich Gillis from quarterback Bill Harrison. Gillis then pitched his completion, to O'Neil who ran it in for 34 yards for his second touchdown of the game.

Lawrence had a couple of extremely quick backs who enjoyed the festivities. Jose Guzman and Jose Abreau had 155 and 107 yard days respectively, while, Jason Colon added 48 yards of his own.

Other than O'Neil, Wilmington had just four yards on the ground on eleven carries. Harrison completed five of ten completions for ten yards while Gillis had the 31 yard bomb on a halfback pass.

If Wilmington wants to come out with a win on Thanksgiving, they must find another offensive weapon - just four yards will not do the trick.

Those numbers were mind boggling

First Inning

Wow! What a game? I was disappointed because I was sick all weekend and I really didn't watch all of the Patriots game. I fell asleep at halftime figuring like everyone else did that they would lose - I woke up just in time when Matt Bahr hit the tying field goal to send it into overtime.

Drew Bledsoe's numbers just absolutely blow my mind. He connected on 45 passes on 70 attempts with no interceptions - and fans were booing him a few weeks ago. Even if they don't win another game this season, that win top the season off.

Not only is Dan Marino the best quarterback that has ever played the game but he is also very exciting to Lee Smith for a year until Frank Rodriguez is ready to be the closer.

I would also sign a veteran pitcher just for a year, re-sign Frank Viola to add with Clemens, Sele, Nabholz and the likes of Tim Lincecum, Nate Minchey and that would be a half decent starting rotation.

And finally, depending on how much money is left a catcher like Mike MacFarlane would fit perfect behind Canseco in the lineup. If not Joe Oliver would be a great choice.

Oh yeah, I forgot, ever since he has been brought up I have said that John Valentin would be a great secondbaseman. Tim Lincecum is not the answer - sign a veteran like Alan Trammell or Dick Schofield and have them platoon with Carlos watch the way he brings he team down the field with him. As is the story with Bledsoe - he isn't even near the prime years of his career yet.

Second Inning

I love the topic of Hot Stove Baseball. First it's great to see that the owners have smartened up by naming our own John Harrington to lead their ways. Maybe the players will turn on the light switch and realize how much money they are making.

But, to the real topic. One way to get Jose Canseco here is to trade the Rangers both Ken Ryan and Garr Finnvoled for the designated hitter. For the Red Sox that will not only improve John Valentin and Mo Vaughn as hitters with Canseco batting fifth but he will also put up very big numbers himself.

If the Rangers lose free agent pitchers Kevin Brown and Kenny Rogers they really have no choice but to make the trade. They add two more young pitchers with the three or four other young arms they have and then they clear up even more money to grab a few more pitchers.

After that if I was Dan Duquette I would get a very fast, switchhitting contact hitter to bat in the number two position after Nixon in order for Valentin, Vaughn and Canseco to drive in runs. Namely right-fielder Steve Finley of the Astros. The Astros are trying to get rid of him and it would take alot to get him and it would definitely be worth it.

To replace Ryan I would sign either John Franco or bring back Rodriguez and/or Juan Bell until Nomar Garciaparra is ready. Use Nachring as tradebait.

And no way would I even think about trading Aaron Sele for Randy Johnson. Sele is already a better pitcher and he has only pitched two years. He costs about five million dollars less, is about seven years younger, has tremendous control compared to Johnson - above all the Red Sox have money to spend that would be totally useless.

Third Inning

It seems that I can't go a week without mentioning my team - but they deserve everything after this win.

About a month ago they played New Hampshire East and the team really was dominated losing by a score of 5-1.

On Saturday, the re-match was in order and off the opening face-off Matt Collins went in for a goal for the very quick 1-0 lead. NH East tied it up just 40 seconds later and then with three minutes left in the first period defensemen Mike Senarian scored the game winner on a great rush. Both goals were assisted by Brian Gillespie.

John Dell'anno stepped in for the absent Paul Sferrezza and John played dynamite from the start making many labeled saves.

The three defensemen Senarian, Steve O'Dea and Eric Jacobs played outstanding. Forwards Tom Anderson, Tom Doyle, Steve Pellerin, Tim Rose and Collins played outstanding as did the rest of the team.

How SWEET Revenge is going to be

by James Pote

Revenge will be sweet. I just can't wait to see it. When it finally comes.

A few weeks ago I wrote an article about Haverhill's football coach Bob Pike, who kept his first string in the lopsided game against Wilmington for most of the entire game without letting his younger players get in the game. He wanted to rub in the score by throwing 30 yard bombs while they were already ahead 28-0.

Part two happened on Friday afternoon when Haverhill traveled to Tewksbury and romped them by a score of 33-7. Still he kept his first string in the game until late in the fourth quarter. That was nice of him to let the underclassmen play. Like the Energizer Bunny he kept coming back. He wanted more touchdowns and more points - he wanted to keep going and going and going. He was calling timeouts while his team was ahead by 26 points. He was calling timeouts to stop the clock so the quarter wouldn't end and they wouldn't have to go into the wind. They were ahead by 26 points - 26-0 to be exact.

In the second half, Haverhill was called for three personal fouls. All were after the original play was over. I wonder where this behavior comes from? Hmmm...

This is really too bad because Haverhill will reap their rewards a few years down the road. Those Hillie players will endure the revenge factor though they had nothing to do with it. That's really sad.

Wilmington will probably never get the chance to play this team again. However, Tewksbury will be playing them again. It will be embarrassing for the Hillies to be pushed around in their home stadium. Tewksbury will return the favor.

It's really great to see that Pike is showing the communities around him what a great job he is doing. Or is it? This is high school sports - not Notre Dame against Boston College. If he continues to be the Haverhill head coach, I wonder if this is what parents want their kids to be taught?

This kind of behavior is not called for in sports and most of all any sort of teaching whatsoever. We should take lessons from the Andover coach - talk about a classy man - this is the kind of person parents want teaching their kids.

This coach, not only put his second string players in the game against Wilmington but he kept them in the game when Wilmington was coming back to almost win. He was also the coach who came along with his players as they paid their respects for the death of Shane Warford. How much more can you ask for?

That is not only coaching, that is being a human being, that is teaching kids what is right - that is what life and sports are all about. Not only does a coach receive a paycheck for wins, but he receives the paycheck for teaching the kids proper sportsmanship. Coaching is showing the kids how to play the game - how to play certain positions, how to throw a football, how to block. In other sports how to serve a tennis ball, how to hit a jump shot but most of all a coach is supposed to be a person whom the kids can look up to.

Is this the Hillies coach? Not in my opinion.

The future of Tewksbury field hockey is now at the junior high level. These girls continued the field hockey rivalry between Tewksbury and Wilmington when they faced off a junior high match-up against Wilmington last Wednesday afternoon. ## Run your Turkey off race results

A record field of 453 finished the 15 kilometer (9.3 mile) "Run your turkey off road race," in Tewksbury under beautiful sunny skies with 206 competing in the 5K (3.1 miles).

The 15K was won by Joe Mulligan of Methuen and Alice Callahan of Belmont. The 5K was lead by Lance Burgess of Dracut and Peg Donovan of Auburn, N.H.

Almost $2000 was raised for the Open Pantry of Greater Lowell at this benefit race which awards frozen turkeys to top finishers. Other notable top finishers from Tewksbury were Michael Mawn, Eric Takach, Jen Lavallee, Jennifer Takach and Kevin Johnson. Finishing in 43rd and 54th places in the 15K were Rick and Dick Hoyt famous for their many Boston Marathons.

The race was sponsored by Tewksbury Physical Therapy and was hosted by the Greater Lowell Road Runners. The race is also supported by the Tewksbury High School Cross Country Team and the Tewksbury Auxiliary Police and received generous donations from many local businesses to help the Open Pantry Organizers who would like to extend their appreciation for the patience of those residents who were tied up in traffic during the race and are sorry for the inconvenience caused.

95 European soccer tour tryouts

The Northeast Soccer Club will be holding two different tryouts for its boys youth soccer teams which will tour Europe in 1995.

The first tryout will be held at Memorial Field in North Haven and will kick off at 10 a.m. Sunday, Nov. 20 while another tryout will start at 2 p.m. at the high school soccer field in Glastonbury.

On Saturday, November 26 at 1 p.m., a second tryout will be held at Bentley College in Waltham. There is no registration fee to tryout and registration at both sites will begin one hour prior to the actual start of the tryout. All current high school players are eligible to participate.

The Northeast Soccer Club will present three different tours in 1995. During the February school vacation, the club will tour England and Wales; this tour is for freshmen and sophomores. During the April school vacation, the tour's destination will be Germany, Holland, Belgium and England. In August, England and Scotland will be visited. Both the April and August tours are open to all high school age boys.

"Traditionally a number of Rhode Island's best players have toured," explains the Northeast Soccer Club's director of coaching, John Mitchell. "For example, John Barrett of East Greenwich and Ben Hesse of Westerly recently toured with the club."

For information concerning year's tours for boys or the special August girls' tour, the club can be called or faxed at 603-437-1967.

(508) 851-6045

Family values are important to you. You make decisions based on how they will affect your loved ones. It follows that you would want your home improvements done by a business that applies the same family values in everything they do.

American Gutter Cleaning Co. is that kind of family-run company. Joe Rocha established the American Gutter Cleaning Co. over 10 years ago. He and his wife, Carol, run the company, along with their highly trained, reliable, and fully insured staff.

If your gutters aren't cleaned at least once or twice a year, you could be increasing the chance of interior water damage to your home. It's important to have your gutters cleaned and inspected for minor damage before the New England snow and ice arrive, and also in the spring after the maples and other trees have dropped their flowers or any

If you're like most people and don't look forward to climbing up a ladder to do the job yourself, let American Gutter help you keep that ladder in the shed - where it belongs. Their service is prompt, and their prices are reasonable... an average house, with aluminum gutters, is $35-$75. They also offer Gift Certificates - a perfect gift for the homeowner or businessman who has everything.

Tewksbury Funeral Home • 1 Dewey St • Tewksbury • 851-2061

The Tewksbury Funeral Home was founded in 1956 by Walter J. Deputat and his wife Gloria A. (Roux) Deputat. Together, they transformed this Victorian style single family residence, dating from 1895 to its current form. The name was given for the Town, rather than for the family name, primarily to indicate the desire to serve the entire population, rather than a particular ethnic or religious segment of the community.

Walter and Gloria entered into semi-retirement in 1984, when they passed ownership to their youngest son, Joel. Since that time Walter and Gloria have divided the year between Tewksbury, Florida and New Hampshire. Joel has continued in the tradition established by his father of personal service within the community, while continuing to upgrade the facilities.

The focus of the funeral home is to provide a complete range of funeral service. "The focus of our service is the bereaved, rather than the deceased," says Joel. This explains the warm, home like appearance within the funeral home. Contrast this with a typical funeral parlor with its rows of chairs arranged to face toward the deceased. "Our arrangement is much more conducive to the healing process, which is, before all else, our primary concern."

In response to a growing demand by today's population, the funeral services offered have expanded into pre-planning of funeral services. With the ability to "customize" a package to fit a particular need, and the addition of membership into the "Forethought" Group, the Tewksbury Funeral Home continues to offer the best value available to today's consumer.

Personalized service, beautiful building, central location, and staff experience are but a few reasons why more people choose the Tewksbury Funeral Home in their hour of need.

Mite C's tie Wakefield

Wilmington 2 Wakefield 2

The Wilmington Mite C's battled to their second consecutive tie this past weekend in Wakefield.

Wakefield opened the scoring in the first period after relentless pressure by Wilmington in the offensive zone. Exciting two way hockey then followed with neither team scoring for the remainder of the period.

The second period was wide open with a total of three goals scored. Wilmington tied the game on a blistering shot by Jennifer Corcoran with assists going to Warren Fitzpatrick and Stephen Peterson. This was one of many fine passes by Fitzpatrick during the game. Wakefield bounced back moments later to regain the lead.

Undaunted, Wilmington maintained offensive pressure. Eric Raposo then launched an end to end rush, starting from behind his own net culminating in a wrist shot from the slot that beat the helpless Wakefield goal tender. The second period ended tied at two.

The third period was scoreless but was packed with numerous opportunities for both teams. Wilmington goal tender Matt David turned aside all Wakefield shots including a break-away with less than two minutes remaining.

Standouts for Wilmington included Michael McMahon and Jamie Riopelle on defense, and forwards Jaclyn Rideout, Donny Heenan, Jay Surianello and Marshall Nevins.

Before the second quarter came to an end, the Wildcats jumped back into the game with a fumble recovered by Tim Devlin (shown here). One play later, Wilmington found the endzone and that was the closest they came to winning the game against non-league opponent Lawrence. (Photo by Phil Fenton).

Squirt A's overtake Woburn

Wednesday, Nov. 9, the Wilmington Squirt A Hockey Team continued its winning ways and outlasted Woburn 2-1.

Coach Chuck Duggan's Wildcats were outshot 28-18, but goalie Justin Brady and the defense were again superb.

Wilmington took the lead at 7:06 of the first period when Danny Liberty passed from the left wing corner to Ryan Higgins alone in the slot. Higgins wasted no time and quickly tipped a shot past the Woburn goalie.

Woburn tied the game at 10:05 of the second period when Brady came out to try to cover the puck during a scramble in front of the Wilmington net. Before Brady could gain control for the faceoff Woburn's Mark Keeley pulled the puck loose and found the Wildcat goal.

Later in the second period, the Wildcats regained their lead when they executed perfect team passing. Center Ryan Layton gained control of the puck just inside his own blue line and began up ice. Layton then passed to left winger Chuck DiDomenico breaking down the left side.

DiDomenico drew the Woburn defenders toward him and then passed across to David Velardo at the Woburn blue line. Velardo swung around the last defender and beat the goalie with a shot just inside the far post.

The balance of the game was dominated by the goalies. Both teams had excellent scoring opportunities that came up empty during back and forth action.

In the end the Wildcats held off the final Woburn rally to win 2-1. This brings their regular season record to 3-0-1 in the tough Squirt White Division of the Valley Youth Hockey League.

Pee Wee C's sends Methuen home

The Wilmington Youth Hockey Pee Wee C's faced off against Methuen Friday in Wilmington and their fans had a lot to cheer about. Wilmington won 3-1.

The first period was scoreless but these evenly matched teams certainly had ample opportunities that were denied by both goalies.

Joe Babineau assisted by Carl Giangregorio started the scoring for Wilmington at the start of the second period as he stuffed the puck in the side corner. Great teamwork was evident in this game as David Trueira, Dave Hanley, Jason Loring, and Chuck Osgood also worked hard to try to score. At the end of the period Methuen managed to get a rebound shot in the net to tie the score.

Halfway through the third period, Joe Babineau and Joe O'Connell did some nice passing to Colin Sheehan who finished the play for Wilmington's second goal. The spotlight was on Carl Giangregorio, on a pass from Joe Babineau; he faked the Methuen defense and lifted the puck into the upper corner for the third goal!

Wilmington's goalie, Chris Rose, put in a spectacular performance between the pipes with endless glove saves. Some solid defensive work was done by Derek Clayton, Richard Palizzolo, Dan Fonzi and Brian Considine. Missing from the defense line and definitely missed by the team is Brendan Binkoski who is hopefully coming back soon.

Outlaws remain undefeated

by Donnie Ahern

Thursday night's Wilmington Adult Hockey games had the White Team beating the Blueliners 4-3 with this victory putting the White Team standing alone in second place.

Next week the White Team will face off against the first place Outlaws.

The second game on Thursday night had the Outlaws against the Ice Hogs with a surprising tie, the first game all season in which the Outlaws didn't win. Could the Outlaws be mortal - I think so.

Next week they will face a little reality.

Fridays games had the Golden State team win over Team 8 by a score of 3-2. In this game, high scorer went to Miguel Murphy, known as the 'Murph'.

The second game played saw the Chiefs beating the Red Team by a high scoring affair of 7-6, with a goal with just 33 seconds left in the game. High scorer in this game was Ed Daley of Wilmington.

outdoors column

Stay home - there's good hunting here

by Bill Conlon

This time of year, it seems everybody is telling "up country" hunting stories. Much as I love hunting tales, it's the "up country" part that sets me on edge.

Locals just can't wait until quitting time on Friday, so they can head to Maine, Vermont or New Hampshire for a few days in the north woods.

None for me, thanks. No need.

I like Massachusetts, and over the years my beloved readers may have noticed that I keep my focus almost exclusively on the Bay State. There is nothing up north, except moose hunting and that will come soon, that we don't have right in our own back yards. I'd rather stay home, thanks.

Why? Because Massachusetts has everything that the northern states can offer an outdoors type, with the hunting just as good, and it's closer and cheaper to boot.

Cheaper? Absolutely! Residents of Massachusetts pay $17.50 for the privilege of hunting, while a visit to New Hampshire, for example, starts with a $70.50 handoff to the town clerk for a non-resident hunting tag. Forget that! For $24.50 I get a resident sporting license, which covers both hunting and fishing, and I get my money's worth.

Deer hunting? Right here! There is a huge deer herd in Massachusetts, estimated at over 50,000 head, and the herd keeps getting bigger despite the annual decimation that hunters impose. They're everywhere!

Central Mass. and the Berkshires are legendary for deer, and keep in mind that Massachusetts allows you to take two deer, not just one! There are big herds in Lee, Hamilton, and towns along the Connecticut border, and much more. For a few years I hunted in Rowe, in the Berkshires, at times walking the back fence of the Yankee Rowe nuclear plant, and there's a huge buck in those woods that still hasn't been hauled down, to my knowledge. One of my favorite spots is near the Barre-Petersham town line, where a monster buck was seen crossing the road just as we were coming out of the woods after sunset on night. He's still out there too, I think.

There are abundant open spaces in eastern Massachusetts, if you look for them. Witness the deer taken in the Harold Parker State Forest, right across I-93 in trendy Andover, and there are huge open spaces closer to the coast, off I-95. The dry humps in the middle of the salt marshes are full of deer, and EPO Bob LeBoeuf told me that Plum Island is crawling with deer. All over the place.

Contrary to the popular belief, deer don't require a "thousand-acre wood" to thrive. Deer are plentiful, right here in eastern Massachusetts! One of the biggest bucks in the state a few years back came out of Billerica, and just last week a nice 10-point was struck and killed by a car in Tewksbury. Yes, Tewksbury! Deer are thriving in the suburbs, thank you.

Towns that don't allow discharge of firearms, I've found, often have lots of deer that can only be hunted with a bow. Fine! I have the woods all to myself, because nobody even thinks of hunting in a "no-shooting" town. It's just me and my bow, and all these suburban deer.

While everybody else is champing at the bit waiting for Friday so they can head up country, I'm knocking off work a little early and hitting the woods on the sunset shift most afternoons. (Oops! I didn't want the boss to know that!) Bye, guys! Good luck up north!

Small game? Right here! Central Mass. and the Berkshires have all the small game you'd like, and there are Wildlife Management Areas stocked with pheasants all over the state. An occasional state forest or a field in a "shooting town" and you're golden. And don't forget all the migratory waterfowl that pass over these parts! Why drive three hours to Vermont if the hunting is great less than an hour from home?

Fishing? What kind? From bass ponds to trout streams to the ocean, Massachusetts has plenty of fishing. Right in our own backyard, we've got big pike in the Concord River, trout stocked in most streams and deep lakes, and I heard one angler predict that the next state record largemouth bass will be taken out of the Merrimack River. For idyllic trout fishing vistas, try wading the Deerfield River. You'll love it!

I admit that I'm a cheerleader for Massachusetts, and I do so without hesitation. There's great hunting and fishing right here, but the resources of Massachusetts are often ignored in the rush to get "up country" for a few days. I'd love to hear your stories from up country, if you'll believe the ones that come out of your hometown, out of your own back yard, while you were away.

Okay, so I'm a home boy. Fine.

Wilmington schools unveil five-year plan

by Jeff Nazzaro
Wilmington Public Schools Superintendent Dr. Geraldine O'Donnell unveiled the system's five-year strategic plan to selectmen and concerned parents at Monday night's board meeting with the warning that the system and education in general in Wilmington are at "a crisis point."

The five-year plan has been implemented this year, through 1999, with a goal of achieving the mission statement for the schools spelled out in the plan.

The mission states that "the Wilmington School System will provide a student-centered education which fosters critical inquiry enabling the individual to be a productive citizen, respectful of self and others, capable of adapting to a changing world and its technology."

O'Donnell added emphasis to the phrase "student-centered education," calling the classroom teacher "no longer the sage on the stage, but the guide on the side of the student."

The mission statement is supported by a list of beliefs that not only lists education as an unalienable right, but also calls upon the community to help support that right as crucial to the development of the town's youth and the town itself.

Included among the list of beliefs is that:

- Everyone should have access to a quality education.

- A quality education is essential to the development of an individual's potential.

- An educated populace is necessary for the benefit and the advancement of our society.

- Education needs to be a community priority with effective community support.

The strategic plan was drawn up by a team of 26 persons living and/or working in Wilmington. The group was culled from across the community and includes school teachers and administrators, parents, a university professor, a Wilmington Police lieutenant, a member of the Wilmington Finance Committee and two Wilmington High School students.

Together the team forged five strategic parameters and five objectives for the school system over the next five years.

The five strategic parameters, or policies, are:

- Nothing will take precedence over the prekindergarten through 12th grade educational program.

- Behavior which does not show respect for one's self or others is not acceptable.

- The school system will work with townwide officials, local businesses and the community at-large to garner support and share resources for mutual benefit.

- All existing and new programs will be periodically evaluated to assess effectiveness, cost/benefit, and adequacy of funding.

- The schools will implement the Education Reform Act of 1993 to include a demonstration of student competency, site-based participatory management, and school improvement plans which will reflect the strategic plan of the Wilmington Public School system.

These policies are intended to lead directly to the following five objectives:

- To develop a technology plan for the system by January of 1995.

- By September of 1994 to develop standards and implement strategies to ensure a safe and secure school environment.

- By January of 1995, the system will have in place a professional development plan that reflects the guidelines of the Education Reform Act.

- Students will demonstrate at various grade levels mastery of defined curriculum.

- Approval, support and funding of the Wilmington Public Schools' Strategic Plan by a majority of the community by June, 1995.

This last objective is crucial to the entire plan. With it, the strategic plan team is seeking a positive referendum on its plan from the community.

The plan's goals are being attacked by seven action teams consisting of one or two leaders and between seven and 10 parents, teachers, administrators, town workers, elected officials and students.

The action teams are currently taking on seven broad strategy areas: behavior, technology, professional development, curriculum, evaluation, strategic plan, and funding.

The strategic planning process is focused on directing the school system towards the goals set forth in the mission statement through proactive leadership, community involvement, and coordination of efforts and activities.

The plan was developed by the 26-member team at a three day retreat held in January.

Tewks. Assessors finish real estate revaluation

The Town of Tewksbury Board of Assessors has announced that in accordance with the mandate of Proposition 2 1/2, the town has completed the triennial update of all real estate and personal property values. These update values will be reflected on the fiscal year 95 property tax bills.

The town has received preliminary certification from the D.O.R. and is presently awaiting final certification of the new assessed values. ## Co-ed classes plus educational innovation is why Austin Prep is on the grow

By PHYLLIS NISSEN

Austin Preparatory School in Reading has come a long way in the girl department since graduating its first and only female student in the Class of '93.

While coeducation at Austin is no longer big news, its effects are somewhat myth-defying and certainly newsworthy: scheduling innovations are well ahead of ed' reform and enrollment is up.

"I'm certainly proud of the way coeducation has been implemented," says Paul Moran, the second lay headmaster since the school opened in 1961. "At first the numbers were very erratic and uneven but the pattern for each year since we first admitted girls in the Fall of '92 has been that the newly enrolling ninth grades have been about 50 percent female."

Of Austin's 537 students in grades six through 12 from more than 50 towns, approximately 145 are girls. The Class of '96 was the first coeducational class to enter the high school, the first class with "significant numbers" of females.

"Girls were admitted at all levels," says Moran. "There were four girls in the sixth grade the first year, a somewhat larger group in the seventh, a comparable group in the eighth, and only a single girl in grade 12. She came to us from Malden, in part because Girls' Catholic closed."

"When you factor in the youngsters from the eighth grade who join us in the junior school, that brings the percentage down a little bit," he continues, "but roughly 30 to 35 percent of the entering ninth grades have been females for the past three years. As more female students enter the junior school and continue into grade nine, I think we'll see a gender-balanced class out there in our near future."

"I remember an article about the alleged decline in numbers in Catholic schools," he continues, "and speaking the next day to a staff member with ties to Central Catholic. We're up. Central Catholic is up. St. John's is up. The perception the numbers are down has mostly to do with the elementary schools which is a longterm problem with Catholic education, but in the high schools I think, in general, the numbers are up - certainly they are here."

Coeducation, says Moran, is one primary reason the numbers are up. It's also a primary reason for the changes which have been made in several areas from classroom instruction to scheduling to athletics, where a full complement of fledgling female teams is looking to find its own level; a league, so to speak, of its own.

Austin Prep to S-4

AUSTIN PREP HEADMASTER PAUL MORAN foresees a "gender-balanced" school in the near future; one where enrollment continues to rise, thanks to innovative scheduling, a clear Catholic identity, and girls, girls, girls.

Stone Zoo expecting four Rhea chicks this month

The first rhea chick should be at Stone Zoo by the time this is read, with three more chicks on the way. The young rheas will join the llamas, capybaras, Patagonian caviars and Magellan geese in the South American Plains Exhibit. Be sure to stop in and see the birds while they're still young. Eventually, they will grow to be about five feet tall. Although rheas can not fly, they are excellent runners

St. John's Prep to hold Open House

St. John's Preparatory School will conduct an open house for prospective applicants for the ninth grade and their parents on two upcoming fall weekends: Saturday, November 19, 9 a.m. to noon; Sunday, December 4, 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

St. John's Preparatory School is an independent Catholic preparatory school for young men founded in 1907 and conducted by the Xaverian Brothers and a highly qualified lay faculty. It is conveniently located approximately 1/4 mile from Rtes. 1 and 95 and 1/2 mile from Rte. 128 on a 200 acre campus.

St. John's provides a comprehensive college preparatory education. The curriculum is designed to take students from introductory levels of mathematics, science, English, foreign language, and social studies to advanced levels, including 13 advanced placement courses.

Registration for the entrance and scholarship examination will take place through November. The test will be administered on Saturday, December 10th at 8:30 a.m. at St. John's Preparatory School in Danvers and at Catholic secondary schools of the Archdiocese of Boston. This examination is for 8th graders only.

For more information call (508) 774-1050 between 8:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. on school days.

and can attain speeds in excess of 30 miles per hour.

The best view of the rheas may be from the new Education Resource Center (ERC), due to reopen as soon as the heat is installed. A large window in the library protrudes into the South American exhibit and provides excellent viewing. A variety of educational programs will soon be available for school children and other zoo visitors in the ERC.

The CZC, NCECP and Friends of Stone Zoo are all planning exciting activities. For instance, students can learn about tropical forests and their conservation or discover the differences between major animal groups by touching the outer coverings of live insects, amphibians, reptiles, birds and mammals. The building will also be available for Zoo Overnight, birthday parties and function rentals.

People may notice some renovation taking place at the zoo. The Zoo Administration building is undergoing a mild facelift and work will soon begin on a nearby Animal Holding building which will serve as a quarantine facility and eventually house some of the zoo's education animals. Money for the renovation is being donated by Petstuff, Stoneham's newest pet store. The winner will be selected at the end of October.

About The Towns

by Phyllis Nissen

'... our first close-up look at the future.'

Remember Dan Kennedy?

"As Ruth Ricker pulled her aging Chevy Sprint into our driveway, my wife and I watched anxiously from the window as the tiniest adult we had ever seen jumped out, holding a sheaf of papers in one hand and a bag of muffins in the other," writes former "Daily Times Chronicle" writer-editor-roving reporter-political commentator Dan Kennedy in the November "Northeastern University Magazine" cover story about Ruth Ricker, president of the Little People of America.

"It was Saturday, February 13, 1993. Our five-month-old daughter, Rebecca, had run into medical problems stemming from her being a dwarf ... Ricker, like our daughter, has achondroplasia ... So when she walked into our kitchen, we paid close attention. This, after all, was our first close-up look at the future."

Kennedy, now the news editor of the "Boston Phoenix," is a 1979 graduate of Northeastern's College of Liberal Arts where he majored in journalism. Ricker graduated from Northeastern's College of Business Administration in 1984.

Are you up for sand dunes and surprises?

Directed by Donna Corbett of Wakefield, Edward Albee's 1975 Pulitzer Prize play "Seascape" opens this Friday at Reading's Quannapowitt Playhouse. A "light, cheerful, amusing, optimistic" look at life, complete with seaweed and surf, it stars Hugh Metzler of Wakefield, Sharon Mason of Andover, David Wood of Newton, and Sara Stepanian of Belmont. For information, call (617) 942-2212.

Class of '74 plans 20th on 26th

The Woburn High Class of '74 will hold its 20th reunion on Saturday, November 26th in Woburn and is searching for some, if not all, of the following wanderers: Diane Cushing, Janis (Noring) Kent, James Mirakian, Judyth (Roberts) France, Robert Salines, Ellen Tortolano, and Joyce (Wood) Rodriguez.

If you have a clue or a question, call Nancy (Eaton) Hubbard at (617) 932-1013 or Paula (Stryke) Macinanti at (617) 935-5512.

Book sale Friday and Saturday

The Friends of the Stoneham Public Library Book Sale will be held for two days this year, due "to an overstock of great bargains."

The sale will take place on Friday, November 18th and Saturday, the 19th from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m.; and will include books, LPs, many reference titles, and at least one set of encyclopedias.

Although the library is "bursting with books," donations of books, tapes or cassettes are still being accepted. Donations of time are important also - volunteers are needed on both sale days as well as the day before. Call Connie Rawson now if you have a free hour.

All sale proceeds benefit the library, and by extension, the community.

Did they bring their own?

"Dozens of minors are bagged at beer party" reads the Towns to S-4

Children's Musical Review auditions

The Spotlighters of Lynnfield will hold auditions for an original Children's Musical Revue on Sunday, November 20th from 4 to 6 p.m. at the Trinity Baptist Church, 227 Summer Street, Lynnfield.

The musical will be written and directed by Paul Sedgwick and produced by Michael Margolis. Please bring music or a cassette to audition. Questions call (617) 334-3249.

Wakefield Festival Chorus begins 1994-95 season

The Wakefield Festival Chorus will present its first concert of the 1994-95 season on Sunday, November 20, at 7 p.m. at First Parish Congregational Church in Wakefield.

The program will feature two choral masterpieces by two romantic composers, Felix Mendelssohn and Antonin Dvorak.

"Come Let Us Sing" by Mendelssohn is a setting of Psalm 95 which features lyrical melodies. "Te Deum" by Dvorak, is one of the last works written before the composer's death and was first performed in New York City in 1892. It is a dramatic work full of exuberant passages which culminate in a climactic ending.

Two guest vocal soloists will be featured performers with the "Te Deum," soprano Margaret O'Keefe and baritone Donald Wilkinson. Organist Susan Armstrong will be accompanying the chorus on First Parish's three manual Austin Organ.

The Wakefield Festival Chorus is an active community chorus in the north shore area.

Its 60 members come from local communities such as Melrose, Malden, Reading, Stoneham, Lynnfield, Danvers, Burlington and Wakefield. The chorus, now in its seventh season, performs three concerts each year.

Concerts in past years have included performances of "Elijah" by Mendelssohn, "The Creation" by Haydn and "Requiem" by Johannes Brahms.

The Concert on Sunday, November 20, will be presented at 7 p.m. at First Parish Congregational Church, number One Church Street, in Wakefield, on Lake Quannapowitt.

The beautiful architecture and excellent acoustics of the church make it one of the most ideal settings for musical performances in the local area. A freewill offering will be taken with a suggested donations of $5 per person.

There is ample free parking and the church is easily accessible from Route 128 one mile, off exit number 39. For more information, call the church office at (617) 245-1539.

Austin Prep is on the grow

"Coeducation reflects 51 percent of the world's population and may lead to a better total experience for 100 percent of the population," says Moran, of the current increase in enrollment which could cause future space problems. "We had a dramatic increase in total enrollment when we first went coed and it's gone up incrementally since then to a point where we realize there's a limit to our growth, given the current facilities. Because we are a coed seven-year school, the numbers of classes and the athletic and co-curricular opportunities needed are obviously very high and very demanding.

"The current enrollment is about 540 and could not go a great deal higher. We'll graduate a very small senior class and for the last three years, the average ninth grade class has roughly doubled its numbers. For the foreseeable future, without looking at conversion of some existing space, that might represent everything we can absorb."

Coeducation caused little change in the composition of the Austin faculty. "We've had a majority lay faculty for quite some time," says Moran. "We have two priests, one brother and one sister, on the instructional staff, 37 full-time teachers and a number of administrators who teach from one to three classes. Approximately 40 percent of the staff is female, not a significant change from when we were an all-male school.

That was important then and there's more concern now, with a coed population, that students see both men and women in positions of responsibility."

Coeducation, according to Moran, has been a catalyst for a lot of thought about appropriate styles of instruction and how to most effectively "call out" various kinds of learners. "Certainly a fair amount of research, some of it contested, suggests traditional competitive approaches to learning favor assertive people," he says, "and the culture tends to reward assertiveness in men and discourage it in women. Some classroom practices which really emphasize competition - the best student in the class - may not well serve the needs of many girls and some boys not fundamentally competitive in nature.

"So there's a natural tendency to look at other structures - cooperative learning, collaboration, group responsibility - which have the double benefit of enabling success by different kinds of learners. This may have strong gender implications and is also part of moving away from the modeling with the teacher at the front of the room dispensing wisdom all the time - and looking instead toward ways to focus on active learning, the kinds of assignments that require youngsters to do a lot of thinking, analyzing and evaluating on their own or in concert with others."

As part of a self-study, looking at different learning styles and the activities which promote maximum learning and retention, the Austin faculty has just implemented a new schedule: three 90-minute periods a day rather than six 42-minute periods. That schedule appears to be running smoothly although the first exam cycle has just ended and the votes aren't all in yet.

Why are girls and boys opting for Austin in such increasing numbers?

It could be the average class size of about 19 students. Or the innovative six-day rotating schedule which attempts to provide a more unified school day. Or "phasing," which allows students to elect two courses in one subject simultaneously or take honors courses in subjects in which they excel and less difficult courses in problem areas.

Or it could be that although 15 percent of the students are non-Catholic, says Moran, the message is clear that Austin Prep is a Catholic school. 'Austin' is a shortened version of Augustinian, the common name for the order of St. Augusta which founded the school.

"We would always like to feel the primary element that brings people up the driveway is our clear identity as a Catholic school," says Moran. "We recognize although that is one draw for parents, they perceive a number of other important advantages. One of the more compelling reasons is often the perception that our lower school or our high school compares favorably to what's available in a given town, and that varies from one year to the next.

"However, we feel our most important asset and the cornerstone of our mission is our dedication to providing a gospel-based experience which emphasizes not just the acquisition of knowledge and communication of information but also the inculcation of a sense of faith, values and purpose. What most differentiates us from any public school is our need to take our cue from the gospel values that call the school into existence.

"The single greatest advantage we bring our students is the sense we're learning things for a real purpose. The framework within which we learn, and to which we devote our talents should take its cue from Jesus as told through the Gospels.

"Ultimately, I think that's how we'll be judged to have succeeded or failed."

40% of the voice mail is considered annoying

Voice mail may be gaining popularity with many companies, but it's not winning any points with the people who feel forced into a maze of options and button-pushing that accompany some systems. In a recent survey, executives from the nation's largest companies said that 40 percent of the voice mail systems they reach are annoying or hard to use.

The survey was developed by Accountemps, the world's largest temporary staffing service for accounting, finance and information technology. It was conducted by an independent research firm, which polled 150 executives from the nation's 1,000 largest companies.

Executives were asked, "What percentage of the voice mail systems you encounter are annoying or difficult to use?" The mean response was 40 percent.

"If used properly, voice mail is an effective tool for making sure callers have a way to leave detailed, accurate messages for the people they're trying to reach," said Robert Half, founder of Accountemps. "Unfortunately, some systems take several minutes to navigate because of a plethora of options, many of which may seem unrelated to a caller's individual inquiry.

"Voice mail should not be used to replace personal communication. Wherever possible, callers should ultimately be able to talk to an actual person, especially if it's a service-related business," Half said.

Half advised job-seekers to opt for reaching a prospective hiring manager or an assistant directly before resorting to voice mail: "If you leave a message you'll have a captive audience, but you may also appear presumptuous."

"Cold-call" voice messages, like unsolicited, faxes, resumes, can work against a job-seeker," said Tony Manfredi, Accountemps' area manager for Lexington, New Hampshire and Rhode Island. "They're intrusive and suggest a lack of professional etiquette."

Manfredi encouraged candidates to be politely persistent, but patient. "Always show courtesy," he said. "It's better to err on the conservative side than to be viewed as overly-aggressive."

Accountemps has more than 160 offices in the United States, Canada and Europe.

Towns

From S-3

headline in the Tewksbury edition of the "Town Crier" which reports that 31 juveniles and minors were arrested recently after police received a complaint of a large party on Washington Street.

In keeping with "Town Crier" policy, only the names of those 17 and older were printed. The list of those "taken into custody on the charge of being a minor transporting or in possession of alcohol" then follows. Names are given, as well as ages, street addresses, and towns.

It was a full house, with the menu encompassing more than beer and attracting party-goers from Tewksbury as well as Billerica, Woburn, Wilmington, and Stoneham.

The party moved to the Tewksbury police lockup.

About The Towns" covers recent events in the 13-town Middlesex East area. PEOPLE ARE TALKING ABOUT MASSBANK'S NEW 30 YEAR MORTGAGE!

MASSBANK's new 30 year 7/1 mortgage program is the talk of the town! Why? Because this mortgage program features both low rates and low costs.

How does it work! The low initial rate is fixed for the first 7 years and then adjusts yearly for the rest of the loan. The initial 7 year rate is lower than most 30 year fixed rates making this program ideal for first time homebuyers and homeowners looking to trade up.

Interested? Call us! Let's talk about it!

(617) 662-0100 1-800-281-4200

MASSBANK's 7/1 program is a 30-year adjustable rate mortgage. Typical monthly payments (principal and interest) based on $100,000 30-year loan at our recent rate of 8.375% (8.60% APR) with 20% downpayment and 0 points would be $4 payments of $760.08 for the first 7 years, followed by 276 payments of $790.78. The rate is fixed for the first 7 years, one year adjustable thereafter, indexed to one year treasury security. During the adjustment period, the interest will not increase in any one adjustment period more than 2% and will not increase more than 5% over the life of the loan. Loans are available on 1-4 family owner occupied properties. Rates, fees and terms are subject to change without notice.

D.I.A.L. Action line for Diabetes

Massachusetts residents now have a place to turn for quick accurate, up-to-date answers and referrals to their questions about diabetes - the American Diabetes Association's Diabetes Information & Action Line (D.I.A.L.).

According to the association, D.I.A.L. is designed to handle a full range of calls, from individuals recently diagnosed with diabetes to people who have had the disease for years. D.I.A.L. links callers with trained individuals who verbally offer information, determine written information to send, and make referrals to diabetes medical professionals.

"We are prepared to answer questions such as 'Are artificial sweeteners safe?' 'What kinds of skin problems are common for people with diabetes?' 'Do you have literature to help me learn about my child's diabetes?' 'Will my child be able to participate in sports?' 'What are the symptoms of Type II diabetes?' and many others," said Cathy Carver, Vice President of Programs of the American Diabetes Association.

In addition, the association will offer information on patient education programs, support groups, family programs, youth camps and services, public awareness programs and professional education programs through D.I.A.L.

Carver says, "D.I.A.L. does just what it stands for - it gives people the diabetes information they need so that they can take action."

Massachusetts residents can reach D.I.A.L. by calling 1-800-DIABETES.

Spontaneous parade erupts in Wakefield

Wakefield wins the gold

For the second consecutive time, with a "five-star gold medal performance" which transformed applause into a standing ovation, the Wakefield High Marching Band has won the Massachusetts Instrumental Conductors Association's Division III State Championship.

The band performed its award-winning "Chorus Line" number before other competing Massachusetts bands and thousands of spectators recently, engendering applause less than one minute into its on-stage warm-up opening number, "I Hope I Get It," and then with "I Can Do That," featuring the tap-dancing of Heather Carroll and drum major Cliff Leavitt; a huge ovation with "What I Did for Love," which ended with the entire band kneeling; and a standing ovation with "One," featuring the top-hatted color guard's own chorus line.

Having captured its fourth state championship in six years, the 103-member Warrior Band received a "boisterous" reception from the town when it returned to Wakefield. Escorted by fire and police vehicles, the buses carrying the band, director Kimberly Smith, and eight band instructors were joined at the head of the lake by several private vehicles for a parade through the North Ward, West Side and Greenwood.

When it finally arrived at Wakefield High, the band received more cheers from students, parents and friends.

First youth festival held

Based on the Washington, DC model, Woburn's first community youth festival was such a positive experience that "next year's promises to be an even bigger success," according to the Woburn edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

Celebrated at Library Field by youth for youth and their families, it was an opportunity for the whole community to celebrate its young people. The festival was sponsored by CASPAR-TAPE, Woburn Housing, Boys and Girls Clubs, Torch and Keystone Clubs, YMCA's High Flight Program, DARE, Grace-Chomerics, and CASA.

Plans are already in the works for next year. If you, your organization or your company wish to participate, call Rossana Salerno or Ron Hobby at CASA, (617) 935-0161.

'From the old school' not so good in Melrose

"For a community that likes to compare itself to Winchester and Weston, Melrose compares readily to Saugus and Lynn" notes one Melrose newspaper, commenting on the state of materials in the Melrose School System.

As of 1992, according to the most recent statistics available from the Department of Education, Melrose spent $23 per child on textbooks, Lynn spent $20 and Saugus $23. Revere, Malden and Peabody, however, spent $27, $30 and $50, respectively.

There is simply not enough money for textbooks, says Melrose Winthrop School Principal Gerald Carmody, who reports that additional educational materials come through the PTO which raises about $13,000 a year for the school. The money from the city, he says, is just inadequate.

According to newly hired school business manager Barbara Quinlan, in a Melrose paper, the combined allotment for textbooks this year was $99,425. Already spent: $107,566.

As for the texts themselves, the average age of a secondary school social studies book is 12 years, the Pilgrims are still the Pilgrims, and Lewis and Clark are Lewis and Clark - and if the books are in good condition, what else matters?

Plenty, note educators.

"There are new teaching systems in place and the books should support them," says Carmody, in a Melrose paper. "Teaching theory has changed. Today it focuses on thinking and process. If you have a book that just focuses on facts and figures, it doesn't support teaching very well."

If you'd like to read about your favorite school, student or teacher in "School Notes," please send school newsletters and other relevant information to Phyllis Nissen, "School Notes," Middlesex East Supplement, Box 240, Reading, MA 01867.

Malden Hospital Parade Nov. 26th

Malden will hold its Third Annual Holiday Parade and Annual Holiday Festival on Saturday, November 26. The parade steps off at 12 noon and the route is Medford Street to Main Street to Pleasant Street in Downtown Malden Square.

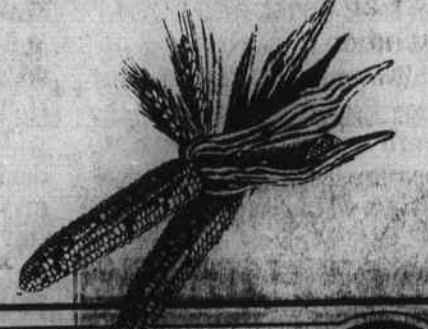

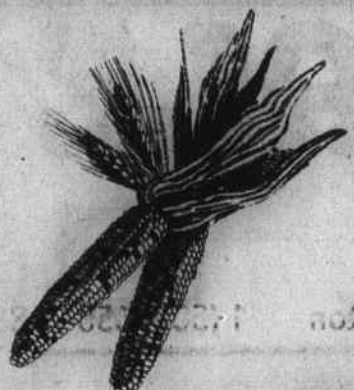

Join spectators for a great parade which kicks off an afternoon of fun, food and entertainment at Malden's Downtown Holiday Festival directly following the parade.

Community Health wins several national awards

The Community Health Institute at Winchester Hospital was the recipient of several health awards from the National Health Information Awards program. This new program awards certificates to the nation's best in consumer health information program and materials.

Sue Powers, Community Education Manager, received the Silver award for her First Aid and Safety for Day Care Providers brochure. Ann Marie Mikols received a Silver Award for her Tobacco Education Program advertisement.

1994 Holiday Fair in Lynnfield

The 1994 Holiday Fair, sponsored by St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Lynnfield, will be held on Saturday, November 19 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. on the church grounds. Open to the public, the fair will have as its theme "An Old Fashioned Christmas - Circa 1800."

The fair will include the farmer's market, crafts, home-baked goods, plants, books, jewelry and a white elephant table. A new feature this year will be the Holiday Boutique where perfumes, hostess gifts and a varied assortment of other new items will be sold.

For the younger set there will be games and prizes, penny candy and lots of used toys. Coffee, donuts and pastry will be available all day. Luncheon will be served from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

In the evening, a home-cooked harvest dinner will be served at 6:30 p.m. followed by the annual Holiday Fair Auction. A large array of donated items will be auctioned by local resident Jay Kimball.

Keeping with The Fair's old fashioned Christmas theme, a special item this year will be a beautifully decorated "all you have to do is just plug it in" Victorian Yuletide Tree. Raffle tickets for an exquisite quilt, made by the St. Paul Quilters, will be sold before and during the Fair, and the winner will be announced at the harvest dinner.

"Donations to the Fair," says Judy Ryan, Chairperson, "are needed. We could use both new and used items for the various tables. Also a variety of interesting things - gift certificates, sporting goods, tickets, etc. are needed for the Holiday Auction. Anyone with suitable items should call the Church office. It would be appreciated if all donations are delivered to the church by Friday, November 18 at 8 p.m.

Home Sweet home business!

Soho used to mean artist's lofts in lower Manhattan, not any longer. Today, Soho is the acronym for "small office home office," the fastest growing business category in the country.

Nationally, home-based businesses have more than doubled to 24.3 million since 1989. Fueled by corporate downsizing and lifestyle disenchantment, that number is expected to grow another 10 million in 1995.

"Today's home-based business is more strongly positioned to compete with larger corporate organizations than ever before," says Kim T. Gordon, president of National Marketing Federation, and author of Growing Your Home-Based Business (Prentice Hall, Simon & Schuster), now in its second printing.

Gordon credits that competitive edge to technological advancements and top-level experience of home-based entrepreneurs.

According to Gordon, today's successful home-based business person has an average of 10 to 20 years experience in the field, so the materials they create for their company must reflect and support that expert image. But unlike their larger competitors, home-based business owners have no visible store front, high-profile executive office, or large sales force. The typical sales call costs approximately $250 and often results in no conclusive sales.

Already, 58 percent of home-based workers use personal computers - as well as 67 percent of small businesses. More than 27 million households - over 30 percent of all U.S. households - have a personal computer.

ANTHONY MANCONI

I'll bet you've heard this a hundred times, "Different folks, Different strokes." Or, "Different people, Different customs." The Chinese place bowls of food and we put flowers on the graves of our dearly departed. An Oriental gentleman was asked, "Sir, when do you suppose your dearly departed will eat the food you just place there?" With a smile a mile wide he replied, "About the same time when your dearly departed smell the flowers you just placed there!"

Folks, if things go wrong and we cry then we've already lost. But, if things go wrong and we try, then, brothers and sisters, we've already won!... My cousin Angelo held the door open for a woman who turned and said, "You don't have to hold the door because I'm a lady!" "Ma'am," Angelo replied, "I held the door open because I'm a gentleman!"... I'm joining my friends of Mickey Reardon's on a bus trip to Montreal. We are going to try to drink Canada Dry.

Folks, please remember, "It's better to wear out than to rust out."... Many years ago when I worked in the Naval Annex in South Boston I'd go to church with my pal Sully. Father Feeney was a dynamic, forceful and eloquent speaker. One Sunday in the 1950s he was in rare form. Everyone listened attentively to every word, even the girls in the choir loft were paying attention. One of them leaned a little too far and fell, her dress caught on the chandelier. Father Feeney shouted, "Any man who looks up at that woman will be stricken blind." Sully looked at me and said, "Chipper, I think I'll risk one eye."

Folks, I must be getting old and grouchy. I just can't stand this "loud" and "lousy" music called disco, rock or bongo bongo. I heard more melodic music in the South Sea Islands. At my niece's wedding reception I told the band leader, "I'll give you $20 if you play five minutes of 'silence'." He told me to get a pair of ear plugs. So, Folks, I don't go to wedding receptions anymore unless the Lawrence Welk type of music is played.

Kathy and I walk with an energetic 'gait' but our hinges are getting a little rusty!... People who live in glass houses shouldn't get stoned.

Researchers have found that laughter not only enhances respiration and circulation, it also increases immune-cell activity. It also suppresses the stress-related hormones. In other words, doctors tell us that "laughter is good for you." "That may be true," Aunt Nora replies, "but the benefits of laughter are nullified by the groans after reading your stupid jokes in your Woodchips column!" Aunt Nora takes a grouch pill every morning.

Folks, if it were not for people like Jimmy Fanikos, Lt. Jackie MacDonald, Blackie Vega, Dennis Tully, George Gould, Tony Stack, Kevin Fisher, and the late Uncle John Shea and Rowan Fitzgerald there wouldn't be any Woodchips. I have written many anecdotes about these gentlemen and not one of them has ever taken offense to them. Perhaps it's because they know that I would never knowingly hurt anyone's feelings.

I always try to make this column fun to write and read so, with that in mind, did you know that my good friend Jimmy Fanikos served with the army in Korea? He distinguished himself so that his name was known everywhere in South Korea. General Douglas MacArthur's headquarters and everyone up to and beyond the 94th parallel knew or heard of Jimmy. He put an entire battalion "out of commission." He received no awards, medals or citations, in fact he wanted to keep it quiet. You see Folks, he accomplished alone what the enemy couldn't do because, dear readers, Jimmy Fanikos was the Battalion cook!

Folks, if we can't or won't laugh at ourselves then we're in trouble. I remember when Uncle John Shea gave me a coffee cup with the lettering "Italian Coffee Cup." The handle of the darned thing was on the inside of the cup. That's okay. I gave him a boomerang for a present. The first time he threw it (down the beach), it came back and hit him on the head!

When Ray Flynn, the former Mayor of Boston, was named to be the Ambassador to the Vatican, Tony Stack shook hands with Mr. Flynn and Tony's right side went sober. Marie Tully, a classical piano player left this note for her handsome husband Robert, "Dear Bob, I have gone 'Chopin'. I have a long 'Liszt' so I can't be 'Bach' in a 'Minuet'!"... Most people throw burnt out light bulbs away.

Dog and Cat nutrition guide

Do you want to learn how to keep a pet at the right weight, maintain its shiny coat, and how to evaluate the ingredients on dog and cat food labels? A new brochure, A Consumer Guide to Dog & Cat Nutrition, answers these and other questions about pet nutrition, as well as provides practical tips and nutritional facts.

"Healthy nutrition directly affects the appearance, temperament and ability of dogs and cats to fend off illness. However, many consumers confuse human and animal nutrition; the low fat, high fiber diet that is healthy for people, is not the best for a dog or cat," says Diane Hirakawa, Ph.D., Vice President, Research and Development, The Iams Company.

Some of the topics discussed in A Consumer Guide to Dog & Cat Nutrition include the differences between animal and vegetable-based proteins and the facts about high fiber diets vs. high carbohydrate diets.

For a copy of the brochure, call the Iams Pet Nutrition Center & Hotline, 800-525-4267, Ext. 44. The hotline operates Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Eastern time, and is staffed by pet nutrition experts.
